1 T-SHIRT DRESS

EMMA CLEVELAND

STEP ONE: Find a t-shirt that you are no longer going to wear. Make sure it is long enough to wear a dress. Have the t-shirt laying on a flat surface. You will need scissors for the next step.

STEP TWO: Cut the sleeves and neckline to create the straps and scoop of the neck. You can make your own desired thickness of the straps and decide how low-cut you want the dress to be.

STEP THREE: Fold each of the edges of the parts that you previously cut. These folds should be small and pulled inward, meaning the ends of the fold are on the inside of the shirt. Sew along the folds to create a clean edge and keep the t-shirt from fraying.

STEP FOUR: To create the waistline, add a small belt with any type of style or print. This will make the dress less baggy and help cinch in the waist. Then the dress is ready to wear.

2 HAIR BOW

COURTNEY OLSEN

This freshman decided to get crafty during her free time when she created this stylish accessory. Courtney's bow helps add a fun addition to your everyday hair style to make it something unique and different. It's made using an old t-shirt, so you can use any pattern of your desire to make the perfect bow. With many options of patterns you can use and several ways you can choose to pin your hair back, this accessory will help capture your own personality. It helps add color and a fun way to do your hair.

"I like the fact that it's mine and that it's not expensive and well made."

HALTER TOP 3

JESSIE DEFINE

This style requires one material and only one step. All you have to do is take a long sleeve shirt and tie it around your neck. It's simple and resembles the style of scarf. This type of style can go with almost anything. It can be considered casual or dressy depending on how you accessorize.

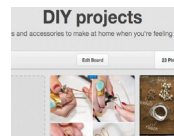

"It's just unique. It's like your one of a kind style."

5 T-SHIRT

MARIA MICHALSKI

This DIY project is common, probably because it is easy to make. As long as you know how to cut, twist, and tie, you can create a shirt with this style. Maria added glitter and ribbon to add a fun design to the t-shirt and show off her personality. She thought the shirt was boring so she decided to tweak it up. Her new design of the shirt makes her stand out when compared to other students with the same t-shirt. Great places to show off this shirt are at school events or sports to show off your school spirit. It's perfect for Black and Gold Day spirit days as well. Maria made this shirt with exactly that in mind.

"I like how cool it turns out and it's my own idea and it's just fun to make something unique."

SHOES 4

KAYLA ANDRZEJEWSKI

These chevron pattern shoes can easily be mistaken for Toms.

This is because Kayla found a pair of Toms with this print online and rather than spend over $60 on shoes, she asked her mom to make them for her. It only took about $10 and an hour of her time to create.

"I like them a lot because they're different and no one else really has them and I like how they're creative and crafty and they're cheap too compared to the $90 Toms online."
